LEARN A NEW LANGUAGE . . . FREE.

NO COST. NO GRADES. NO PRESSURE.

Duty-Free Fun

Want a taste of a new language and culture without leaving home? New York University is offering free, noncredit language coaching in the residence halls and elsewhere on campus. Each week, you'll learn how to communicate on a different topic, and you'll enjoy a related activity—a movie, concert, or neighborhood visit—as part of a small, informal language group.

You can choose a 10-week session in Arabic, Cantonese, Czech, French, German, Greek (modern), Hebrew, Hindi, Irish, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Mandarin, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, Swahili, or Twi; if enough students are interested, other languages may be offered.

It's all free—and easy. Meet new people and have fun. It's the perfect way to try out a language and culture before you study or visit.

And when you're ready to pack your bags, NYU offers many exciting options. For more information about study abroad programs, visit www.nyu.edu/studyabroad.
