Prelaw at NYU

Virtual Advising and Registration
Choosing a Major

• There is no such thing as a prelaw “curriculum.”

• Law school have no specific course requirements for admission.

• Law schools like to see diversity in coursework and welcome applicants from ALL majors, including math, sciences, engineering, and the arts.

• Choose a major that interests you, one in which you will perform well.
While at NYU, focus on developing skills that are useful and necessary for law students and lawyers:

- Writing, Research, and Editing
- Oral Communication and Listening
- Problem-Solving and Critical Reading
- Organization and Task Management
- Public Service and Promotion of Justice
- Relationship-building and Collaboration
Other Factors

- Difficulty of the applicant’s major and courses
- Honors courses and seminars
- Carrying light or heavy credit loads
- Overloading on pass/fail classes or lower-level courses
- Withdrawals from courses or repeating multiple times
- Working while simultaneously attending college
- History of poor performance on standardized tests
- Extracurricular activities
- Undergraduate research
- Demonstrated leadership on- and off-campus

Meet with a preprofessional advisor to discuss any of these factors and how you should address them in your application.
What you can do to prepare for law school during your first year

• There ARE things you can do now and throughout your four years in order to best prepare yourself for law school admissions – DO NOT WAIT until you apply.

• Get to know at least one faculty member well enough for them to write you a convincing letter of recommendation when it’s time to apply to law school (such as your First-Year Seminar instructor).

• Join a few prelaw related clubs and organizations at NYU.

• Get to know some law students and lawyers through mentoring programs, shadowing, internships, workshops, info sessions, and law school visits.

• Seek summer jobs or internships in your fields of interest, not just prelaw

• Do your best academically!
