Written a great term paper that you want to share? Got an interesting idea for a paper you are working on for this semester? Have you been working on a senior thesis or capstone project that you’re looking to present and get feedback on? Then submit a proposal to the Italian Studies Department’s annual Undergraduate Research Conference!

We want all of your paper ideas no matter your major—if you are writing on anything related to Italian culture, we want to hear from you! Topics can range from literature, performance studies, translation, art history, film studies, music, history, queer studies, spanning the medieval to modern periods. We are also accepting any and all creative projects ranging from creative writing to fashion to film production.

All you have to do is send us an abstract (a brief description of around 150 words) of the 15-minute paper you would like to present. If your paper is selected, we will then place you on a panel with other related presenters for the day of the conference. We will also match you with a graduate student mentor who will help you polish the paper for presentation. Lunch will be included for all participants and the day will be open to public.

Abstracts (150 words) to be submitted by

March 9th, 2018

Submissions / Inquiries: Matthew Zundel or Emily Antenucci (mpz214@nyu.edu) or (eca302@nyu.edu)